

ABOUT JAMES

EDUCATOR & CONSULTANT

With a long history of working with community non-profits, & before that, as a young person advocating for student rights in a small NJ town, James has combined their passion of education & advocacy together to create innovative trainings for K-12 schools, universities, & a wide array of agencies (from health providers to youth-serving ones). Topics have ranged from LGBTQ+ & Trans 101s, better practices, compliance with local/federal legislation, racial equity, diversity, inclusion, & more.

Before becoming a freelancer, James worked at a number of non-profits including the YWCA of Western Massachusetts (Youth Project Director), the Pride Center of the Capital Region (Director of Programs / Youth Program Manager), & Grand Street Community Arts (Interim Executive Director).

James holds an MFA in Creative Writing from Queens College (2010) & a BA in English Literature & Gender Studies from Hunter College (2008).

ACTION. CHANGE.

COST / FEES

Fees for trainings, presentations, panels, consulting work, & other technical assistance are assessed by a sliding scale fee structure which is based on the budget of the school, organization, business, or individual requesting the services.

Fees typically include prep time, travel, hour(s) worked, etc. These fees help sustain the vital work being done to support inclusive LGBTQ+ spaces.

A portion of these fees are donated to grassroots non-profits doing work to benefit marginalized communities.
