EDUCATOR & CONSULTANT

James Shultis (they/them) is a community educator, advocate, & creative writer.

With over a decade of experience working in community non-profits, & before that, as a youth advocate, James has combined their passion of education & advocacy together to create innovative trainings for K-12 schools, universities, & a wide array of agencies (from health providers to youth-serving ones). They also offer consultation, technical assistance, & support.

Topics range from LGBTQ+ & Trans 101s, better practices, compliance with local/federal legislation, racial equity, diversity, inclusion, & more.

cost / fees

Fees for trainings, presentations, panels, consulting work, & other technical assistance are assessed by a sliding scale fee structure which is based on the budget of the school, organization, business, or individual requesting the services.

Fees typically include prep time, travel, hour(s) worked, etc. These fees help sustain the vital work being done to support inclusive LGBTQ+ spaces.

A portion of these fees are donated to grassroots non-profits doing work to benefit marginalized communities.

about

The education & consulting services provided are specifically tailored for the school, organization, business, or individual requesting services.

Accommodations can be made based on the audience size & makeup, location, & individual need.

The length of service might be a one time presentation to ongoing consultant work. Needs assessments & other specialized projects can also be done.
